Dr. Larry Stone Presents David Stone Memorial Scholarship to Outstanding Musician Scholar at Temple University

Award honors Dr. Stone's father, founding dean of Temple University's College of Music.

(May 2014) – Philadelphia, PA – Dr. Larry Stone presented the David Stone Memorial Scholarship at the awards ceremonies for the Boyer College of Music at Temple University to Sean Bailey, a junior attending the college. The David Stone Memorial Scholarship is presented each year to a junior music major having the highest grade point average at Temple University. The scholarship is funded by an endowment established to honor the memory of David Stone, founding dean of the College of Music at Temple University, and father of Dr. Larry Stone.

Sean Bailey is a clarinetist with a 3.9 grade point average. He was a principal clarinetist at the Philadelphia Youth Orchestra and is a member of Temple's Symphony Orchestra, The Temple University Big Band, and the Wind Ensemble. He is a member of The Baily Trio, GKHAT and the Slowburn Jazz Ensembles. He hopes to pursue a career as a performing orchestral clarinetist after graduation,

It is always a pleasure to have the opportunity to present this award in honor of my father," remarked Dr. Stone. "He was a devoted teacher and musician and would be delighted to see the caliber of student performers attending Temple University today."
